...A STORY OF

YOUTH

This is the great hour of transition. We all too soon will exchange sheltered, guided, and secure lives for an existence in a world of unrest and turmoil.

Because of our parents, teachers, and clergy, we are not unaware of the responsibility we undertake. We wish to fulfill this trust, but we are young and hesitant to leave a life of security and shelter.

In token of this reluctance, we herein make record of these years we have known—this golden time of youth.

BECAUSE OF THE HONORS WOBURN HIGH SCHOOL HAS RECEIVED UNDER YOUR SUPERVISION, BECAUSE OF THE IRREPLACEABLE NICHE YOU HOLD IN THE LIFE AND SPIRIT OF OUR SCHOOL, BECAUSE OF YOUR WORK, WITHOUT WHICH OUR YEARS HERE WOULD SOMEHOW HAVE BEEN EMPTY, BECAUSE OF THE COMPACT BETWEEN YOU AND THE STUDENT BODY—A COMPACT OF INTEREST AND ASSISTANCE ON YOUR PART, OF ADMIRATION AND GRATITUDE ON OURS—BECAUSE OF ALL THESE THINGS AND IN TOKEN OF OUR MOST SINCERE THANKS, WE DEDICATE THE 1961 INNITOU TO YOU,

Edson L. Kimball

Administration And Faculty

The heart of any school is its faculty. Indeed, the success of the individual student depends in large measure upon the caliber of his teachers. In this regard, we of Woburn High have been most fortunate.

To those who have taught us, who have guided us, who have helped to make up what we remember as the "golden years", we offer our heart-felt thanks.

Superintendent's Message

J. FRANK HASSETT, ED. D.

Greetings and congratulations to each member of the Class of 1961. Your yearbook is a marked achievement.

I congratulate you and your parents on your completion of four years of educational preparation for future endeavors. Many sacrifices have been made by your parents that you might finish this preliminary training for life's work. I know how happy and pleased they are on this occasion.

Education is indispensable for those who have the ability and desire to improve themselves. An everlasting faith in God's Wisdom and a sincere effort to be of good character will definitely determine the extent of your success in future endeavors. Never hesitate to be honest, upright, and true at all times in all of your activities.

You have the imagination and youth to compete in this opportune period of "New Frontiers" as proposed by our President, John F. Kennedy. I urge you to view the years ahead with optimism.

It has indeed been a pleasure for me to have played a small part in your educational program and development. I hope that you will continue to consider me a friend who will be ever ready in the future to advise and help you whenever needed.

I am very pleased to be afforded this opportunity to have this brief message in your yearbook, and I wish each of you success and happiness in any new undertaking which you may decide to pursue.

Principal's Message

HENRY D. BLAKE

Graduates of the Class of 1961:

In the evening of his life the noted seventeenth-century English poet, John Donne reflected on the significance of his past experiences: "No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the Continent, a part of the main . . . any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in Mankind; and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee."

On the eve of Graduation for the members of the Class of 1961, there is a significant lesson for all to learn from this sermon, not as a discouragement, from a prophet of gloom but rather as a recognition of the virtues and potentials of the least among us. It is a humbling thought to reflect that on the eve of permanent separation of the members of this class, the image of the class, that will carry through the years, is a composite of the total contributions of each of its members in their years at Woburn High—the help of the last as well as the first.

Perhaps the most significant single aim of the school during your stay has been the attempt to have all pupils learn to live in harmony in our American democracy, recognizing their responsibilities as well as their rights. The promotion of the general welfare must have high priority if our society is to serve its reason for existence.

In the days ahead, when discouragement and anxiety cause distress, we could properly remember that we were not educated in a vacuum, that we must sincerely extend the hand of friendship and aid in the brotherhood of man, and that the pursuit of happiness and the promotion of the general welfare can most readily result when a voluntary acceptance is made of our responsibilities as American Citizens. Certainly Donne pointed the way when he declared, "No man is an island . . . every man is a part of the main."

May the future see your hopes fulfilled, and may your training here at Woburn High prepare you for your "finest hour."

FEATURES OF 1961

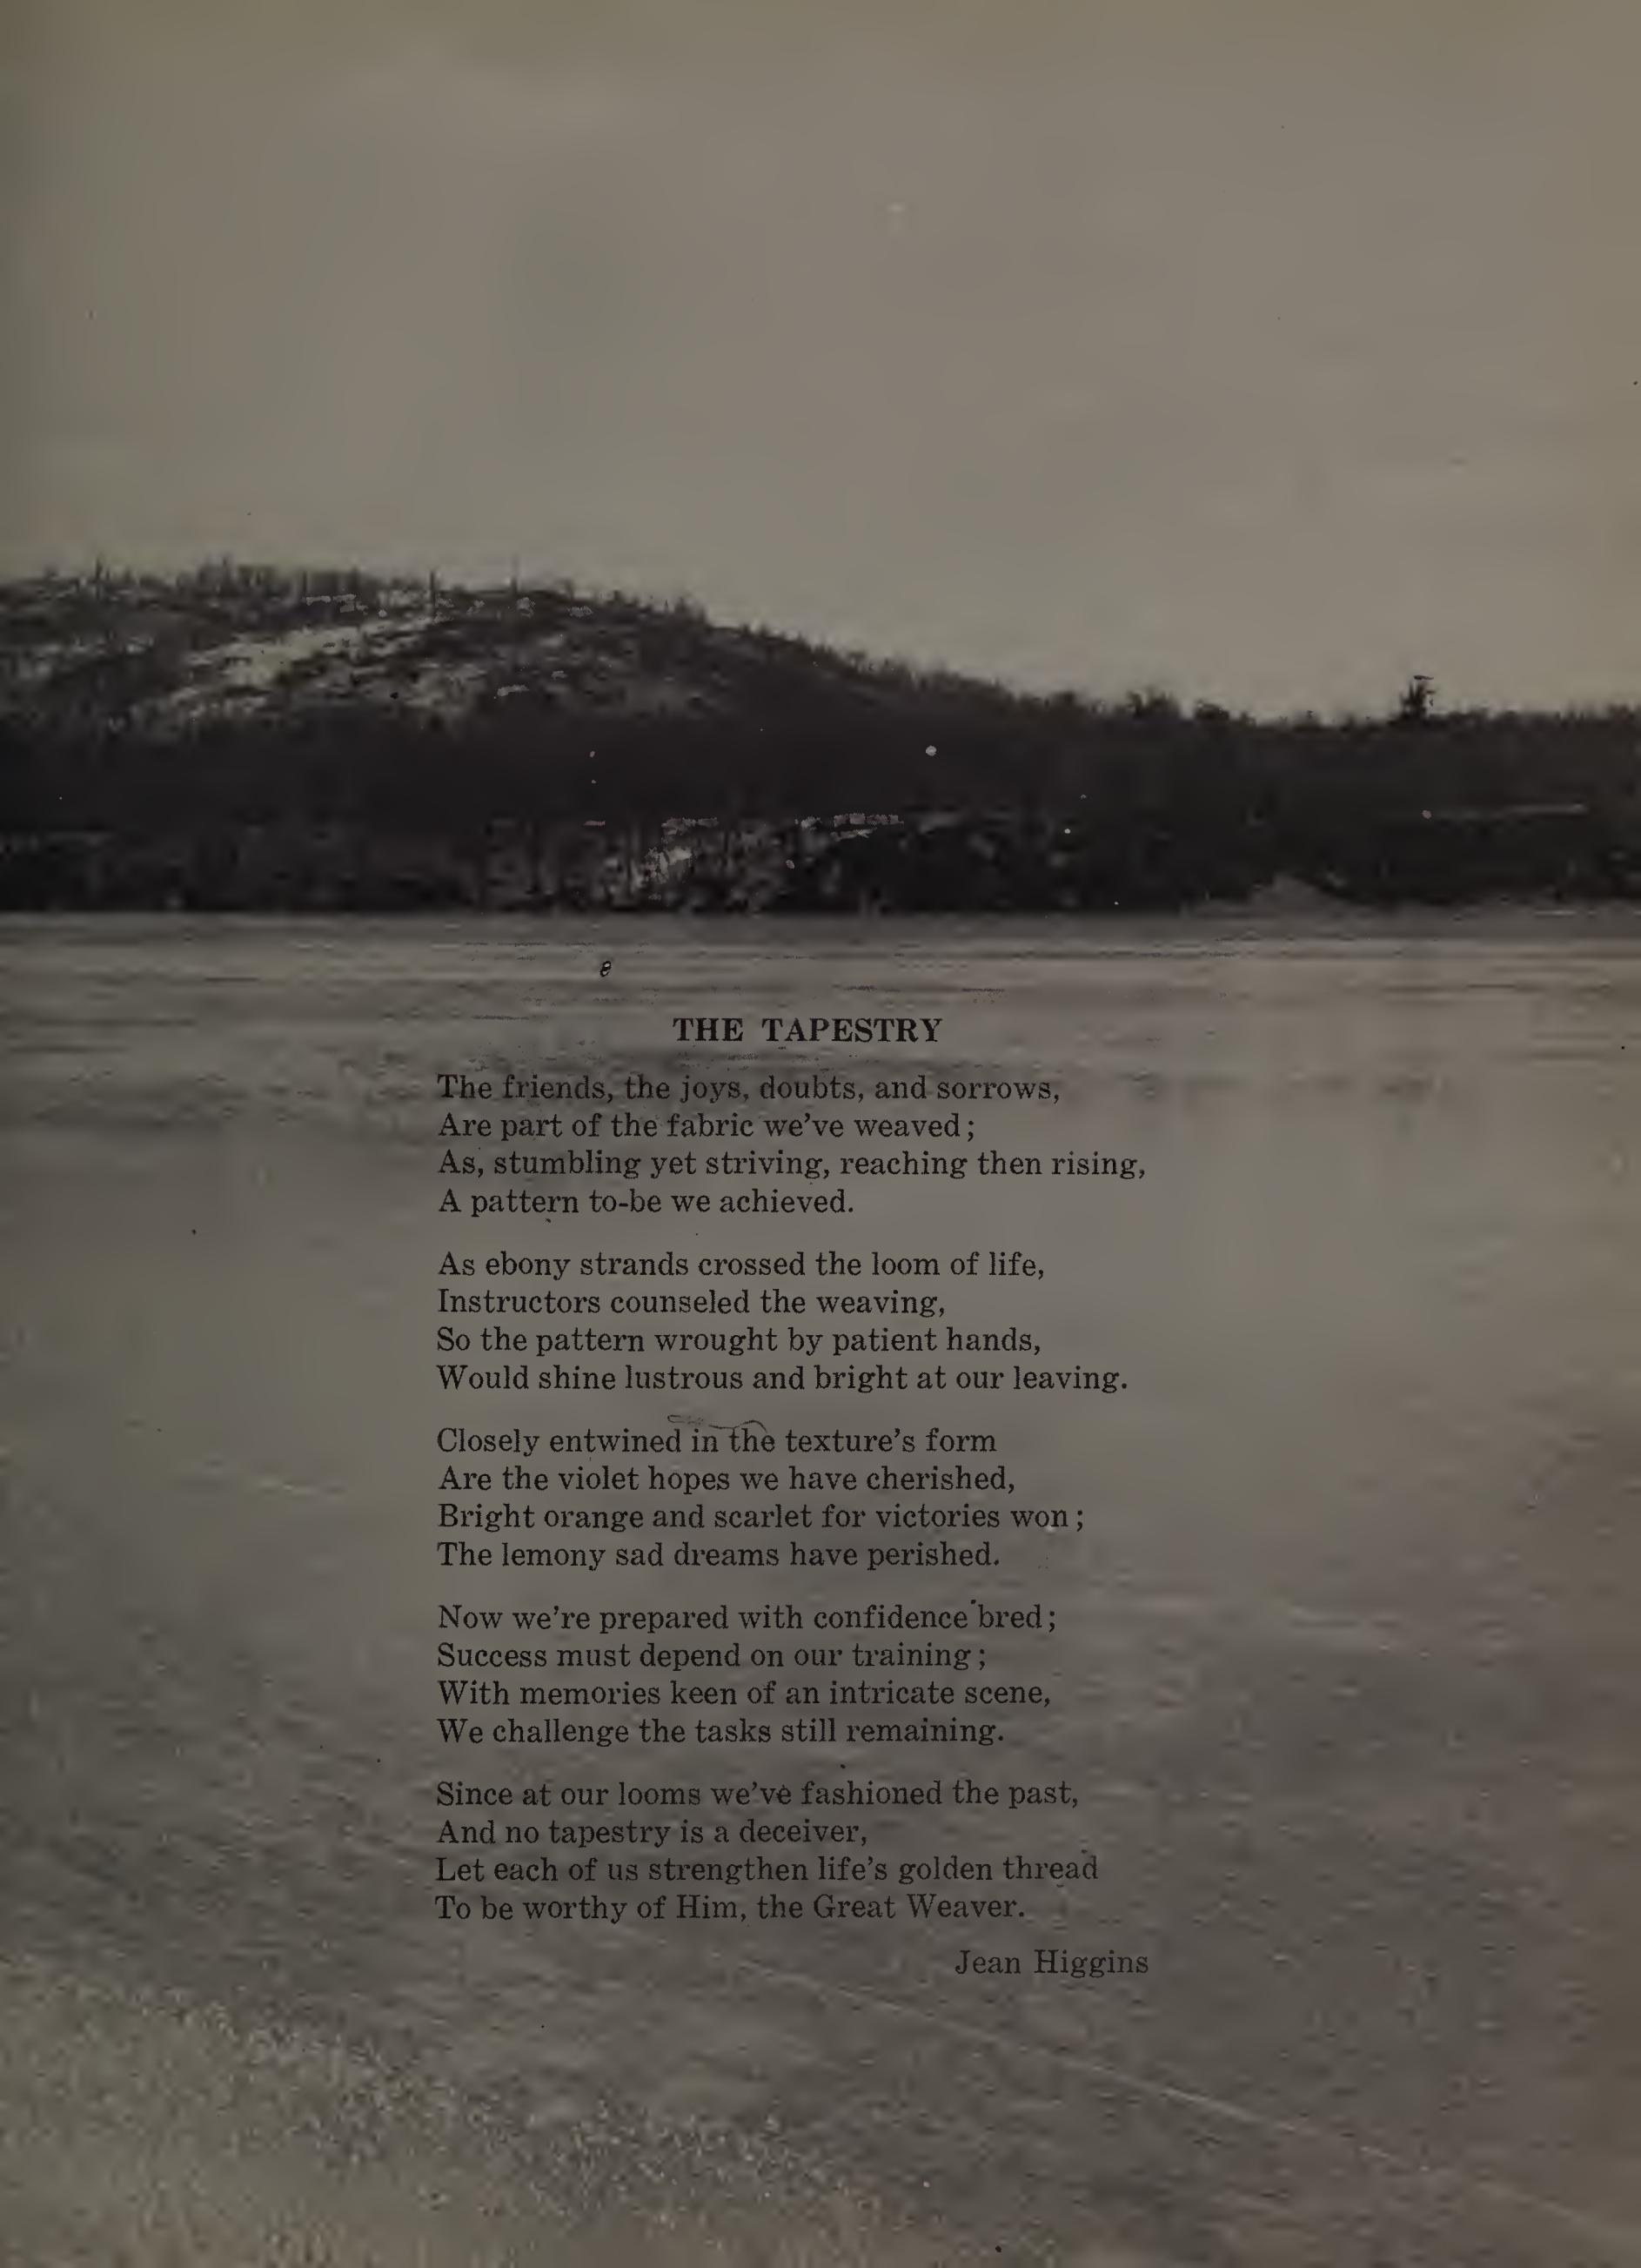

VISION

When we find ourselves proceeding
Through the haze of future years,
Our mem'ries all return here
And we'll smile through misty tears.
We'll remember Woburn High School
And the joyous times we knew
As we go to meet the future
With a vision fond and true.

When we see our banner waving
'Gainst the azure sky beyond,
We recall our glorious vict'ries
And the heroes we've cheered on.
We will hail the black and orange
While our hearts sing out with pride
As we go to meet the future
With our past to be our guide.

Lynette Herlin

Tune: When Your Hair Has Turned To Silver

THE TAPESTRY

The friends, the joys, doubts, and sorrows,
Are part of the fabric we've weaved;
As, stumbling yet striving, reaching then rising,
A pattern to-be we achieved.

As ebony strands crossed the loom of life,
Instructors counseled the weaving,
So the pattern wrought by patient hands,
Would shine lustrous and bright at our leaving.

Closely entwined in the texture's form
Are the violet hopes we have cherished,
Bright orange and scarlet for victories won;
The lemony sad dreams have perished.

Now we're prepared with confidence bred;
Success must depend on our training;
With memories keen of an intricate scene,
We challenge the tasks still remaining.

Since at our looms we've fashioned the past,
And no tapestry is a deceiver,
Let each of us strengthen life's golden thread
To be worthy of Him, the Great Weaver.

The job of putting a yearbook together begins early in September. This year, the endless sea of layouts, pictures, and deadlines was met by a new staff and a new advisor. The result is a book that differs in many aspects from those of previous years, but a book of which the now "veteran" Innitou team is very proud.

We saw a different kind of Tanner team this year. Under the leadership of co-captains Jim Morrison and "Necco" Eaton, the gridders were known as a passing team, and used this technique to great advantage. Much credit also goes to quarterback "Tango" Foley and Coaches White, Skeffington, Devaney and Murray.

We didn't win the conference title in 1960, but guess what?

Now Our Story Is Told

The world, a world of change, looks to us as the great wave of the future, wherein is borne either salvation or ruin. The cares of our new life will soon occupy our minds, but in our hearts will remain memories of youth, of the golden time.

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY
TERCENTENARY COMMISSION

To the Vantine Studio, Douglas Dunn,
Delmar Printers, the Woburn Daily Times,
James Shaughnessy, our Advisors, all of our sponsors and to everyone who contributed to the 1961 Innitou, we give our heart-felt thanks.

For our parents and teachers during the formative years—for those who have provided for and guided our youth, words of gratitude can not suffice.

SIGNED THIS ELEVENTH DAY OF JUNE, 1961.

THE CLASS OF 1961

CLASS HISTORY

In September of 1958, the venture of sending the Astronaut, the Class of 1961, into space on the rocketship named Success was undertaken.

Before any definite steps could be formulated in preparing the launching, leaders had to be chosen. They were Beverly Cummings as President, Martha Delaney as Vice President, Joyce Hemsworth as Secretary and Phyllis Shaw as Treasurer.

The first step in the operation for such an adventure is physical training. We, the Class of 1961, showed a fair record in athletic competition during the interval 1958-1959, our Sophomore year, but it could be seen that we had potential ability and that a bright future lay ahead.

In January of 1959, a major mental hurdle was placed before the Astronaut. Its name, Mid-year Exams. This was completely new to the Astronaut and he did not know quite how to cope with it. He studied unceasingly and did the best he could, but there was much room for improvement.

With all the physical and mental training it was decided by the leaders of Operation Success to have a social affair to break the tenseness and to give the Astronaut a chance to relax. This splash was called Winterwhirl.

The first scientist to be selected to work on the rocketship was Roland Maloney, who won second prize in the Science Fair.

This brings us to June, 1959, and the close of the first phase of the preparations for the launching, the Sophomore phase. The countdown had begun.

With the time drawing near for the blastoff, more scientists were added to the team preparing the rocketship Success. They were selected because of their achievements in the Annual Science Fair. They were Roy Larson, Linda Addario and David Erwin.

During this second stage in the countdown the Astronaut selected a new administration. We now find Alfred Spolidoro as President, Michael Hassett as Vice President, Joyce Hemsworth as Secretary and Phyllis Shaw as Treasurer leading the Astronaut, the Class of 1961.

The mission was in full operation, but more physical and mental tests had to be taken because the Astronaut must be in top physical and mental condition to go out into the wide world of life. The physical conditioning during this sequence of events was undertaken. He proved to be getting stronger as could be documented in the athletic achievements of 1959-1960; Northeastern Conference winners in football and hockey, second place in baseball and a strong track and cross country team. But along with the physical exams, the Astronaut had mental testing barriers to surmount. These were in the form of mid-year exams and college boards. They proved to be difficult, but the Astronaut did his best and was glad to leave this part of training behind him.

Our Junior Prom, Shower of Flowers, highlighted the social affair of the year. The Astronaut's shoes were dusted off, his bow tie was straightened, and formal clothes were the order of the day. Boston and surrounding smart supper clubs had a glimpse of tomorrow's social set wherever reservations were "sounded off".

As our weary veterans closed the mental, physical and social book on another memorable year, the voice of time ticked loud and clear, the countdown is now!

The Astronaut, now at the pinnacle of his young career, is entering the final phase, the Senior phase, of the operation. We now find at the helm of this space excursion Harry Nelson, who was elected President, with David McCauley, his Vice President, Joyce Hemsworth, his Secretary, and Phyllis Shaw, his Treasurer.

The final physical examination was administered to the Astronaut and he proved to be in excellent condition as the athletic record of 1960-1961 testified, namely, hockey, basketball and baseball Conference Championships and strong football and track teams.

Truly, our Astronaut is physically fit to meet the world, but a final mental checkup is necessary to assure the success of the flight.

The same old nemesis, mid-year exams and college boards, for those who are furthering their education, were placed before the Astronaut. This final mental hurdle would be the one that would either make or break the Astronaut. These examinations would be the ones to guide the rocketship on a straight path and on a successful flight.

On December 16, 1960, the semi-formal Senior Dance, Sleighbell Fantasy, was held. It was one of the highlights of the senior year and the Astronaut carried away many happy and unforgettable memories.

The rocketship as well as the Astronaut must be in excellent condition. To assure this a group of scientists were added to the team already at work on the rocketship Success. They were Francis Scholz, Caroline Burdette, Marcia Petersen, Kenneth Zolon, Joseph Palermo, Russell Brown and Lawrence Baldwin. They were selected because of their scientific ability, which they displayed in the Science Fair.

During April, before a capacity audience, the Class of 1961 presented a three act comedy entitled Father of the Bride. The play was a huge success, both socially and financially.

During May all thoughts turned to the Senior Reception, entitled Shangri-la. It was a wet night but the spirit of the Astronaut was not dampened. Once again he spruced up and went on a social whirl, a night to be remembered.

The time has come, the Astronaut is ready, the rocketship is ready, the countdown is over. Blast off! the ignition is ignited and the rocketship Success is starting out into the world of life. As the Astronaut, the Class of 1961, soars into space he has these few thoughts and ideals before him.

The past is now buried, the present is with us, the future is before us; but soon our present and our future will be reckoned with the past. The months come and go upon the wings of the wind. The great bell of Time, swinging in the dome of space, is tolling away our years. One after another they ring out upon the air and float away into eternity.

And so the first law of success today is concentration. We must bend all our energies to one point, looking neither to the right nor to the left. Life is so short, and the range of human knowledge has increased so enormously, that no brain can know all things. If we are to get along we must single out our specialty, and into that must pour the whole stream of our activity -- all the energies of our hands, eyes, tongue, heart and brain.

Edward Callahan

VISIONS

The visions and dreams of the founders of Woburn have reached their apex in this year of 1981 as we see the final preparations of the World's Fair being made here on these 12.86 square miles of good earth. As supervisor of display and advertising, I, Linda Addario, am walking from building to building checking the canopies and stagings. My old classmate, Arthur Koski, Miami Beach real estate king, is the president of the foundation which is sponsoring the United States Exhibition at the Fair. It was Artie who chose Iannacci's Farm for the buildings. It was a splendid location, I think. Artie and I are certainly looking forward to the grand opening of the Fair; and as we meet for the first time since our graduation, we are both anticipating the great event, anxiously hoping that we might see some of our classmates once again.

Artie: I'm glad you could make our luncheon date, Linda. (I can't understand it; her complexion is so smooth and it's been twenty years!) How do you manage it, Linda?

Linda: Simple, Artie, I use Palmoliver face cream developed by Fran Oliver and Leslie Tower, top beauty scientists.

Artie: I hope we shall run into a few of our old classmates here at the World's Fair.

Linda: I do too, Artie.

Artie: Well, let's get something to eat first. Where would you like to go?

Linda: Let's try Henry Rizzo's Italian Palace. I hear that Louise Melaragni's spaghetti and meatballs are delicious.

Artie: Yes, just recently they were awarded first prize at Joe Flaherty's annual "Meat Ball".

Linda: Why don't you call Henry's for reservations, Artie? Just ask hostess, Roberta Giles, to connect you with either Ernie Dinsmore or Ralph DiMarco, co-head waiters.

Artie: It's only a short distance, Linda, let's take my safety-mobile designed by Registrars Russ Brown and Carol Rogers.

Linda: Never mind, Artie; let's walk. Maybe we'll see some familiar faces.

Artie: All right.

So, our two classmates dine at Henry's and shortly return to the Fairgrounds when --

Linda: Oh, Artie! Look towards Rag Rock! Isn't that Edie Liddell getting the balloon ready?

Artie: What time does the balloon go up, Edie?

Linda: I thought Edie had become a professional tennis player.

Artie: I did too. The last I heard she had lost the Davis Cup to champion Billy Mahoney.

Linda: The public relations director, Priscilla Josephson, has extended an invitation to all the World's Fair officials for a preview of the show. Do you think we should stop in?

Artie: Yes. That's a good idea.

Linda: I'd like to see Eleanor Verrecchia's new Paris creations. I heard some of her models are Nancy Spinali, Linda Ruckstuhl, Janet Ciampa, Joan Gaudioso and Mary Jane Garvey who are all graduates of John Francis Powers Finishing School. I've seen some of Ellie's originals in a dress shop owned by Karen Danca and Jean DiStasio.

Artie: There are hostesses Janet Cagnina, Alice Doto, Sally Farrell and Linda Scott.

Linda: And here's an exhibition of the Central Square Boys' Club founded by Tony Cieri, Jimmy Sheeran and Ed Oulton. Ed made a fortune when he invented a burglar-proof paper lunch bag.

Artie: The land for the Boys' Club, which is located behind the Central Square Fire Station, was donated by Fire Chief Walter Kearney.

Linda: I hear that Miss America, Pauline Magee, will be here on Wednesday night.

Artie: Yes. After seeing Pauline and then going to Europe, I'll really miss America.

Linda: Oh, are you going to Europe?

Artie: Yes. PGA Champion Richard Levesque and I are planning on entering the British Open.

Linda: I see Swedish film star, Joan Hussey, is visiting the U. S. Exhibition.

Artie: Yes. She's doing impersonations of Frank Fontaine.

Linda: There are construction workers Richard Roketenetz, Manuel Pereira, Gordon Olmstead and Stephen Haney preparing the stage for Bill Burns' K. of C. Minstrel Show.

Artie: They've just completed building the World's Fair Kennels owned by Elaine Brown.

Linda: I think she's putting on the dog.

Artie: She'd better watch out for the dog catcher, Roberta Seminatore.

Linda: Here's a booth occupied by Bonnie Dufour and Betty Kenty, co-owners of the World Beauty Salon.

Artie: One of their most distinguished graduates is debutante Connie Tavanis.

Linda: There's Ed Parsons and Frank Mikalauskas erecting a billboard advertising Mike Martel's new Cinerama Drive-In.

Artie: That's strange, on the other side of the billboard is an advertisement for Mary and Martha Delaney's Twin Drive-In.

Linda: I'm glad to see that they are both featuring the same movie, "Where the Boys Were", starring Marie Lindquist and Dee Dunnigan.

Artie: We'd better step out of the way. Here come Olympic Miler Dave Erwin and his trainer, Tony Pasciuto.

Linda: They're running in the direction of the giant military exhibit. Let's go over there and take a look at it.

Artie: There's Secretary of Defense, General Robert Murray, directing the movement of one of Major William Sherman's tanks.

Linda: I think I see Admiral Judy Snow recruiting young women for the Waves.

Artie: Isn't that Ensigns Carol Jansky, Lois Jones and Kathy Hamilton serving as her aides?

Linda: Yes, and as competition, Anne O'Connor and Jean Higgins are recruiting for the WACS.

Artie: Well, let's be on our way down town. I have to stop and pay my bill at Victor Fugazzotto's barber shop.

Linda: Isn't that Stuie Wilson and Laurie Higgins setting up the 23rd annual Paper-back Book Fair at the library?

Artie: Yes, and Librarians Dan Dares and Barbara Wood are featuring Charlie Lampassi's new magazine, "Consumer Reports".

Linda: Speaking of literature, Artie, Paul Samuelson and Kevin Carey have just revised the book, Man and the Motor Car.

Artie: There's the World Theater, Linda. I'm sure we'll see some of our old thespians there.

Linda: Yes, we certainly had some actors in our class.

Artie: Why look, there's Ruth Larm selling tickets. Two please, Ruth.

Linda: She gave you the correct change too, Artie. I always knew she had a mathematical mind.

Artie: Look, there's Richie DeLong in the orchestra pit.

Linda: I'll bet he's collecting pit passes.

Artie: Why, it's Larry Baldwin, the theater policeman. Where have I seen a figure like that before?

Linda: There's an usher, Artie, we ought to have him find our seats.

Artie: Actually, there's an usher for each of us. One is John Andreason and the other is Ralph Ragucci. I guess their eyes became accustomed to this work from looking across the dark floor at the "Y".

Linda: Sssh! The show is about to begin. There's Ed Callahan, the Master of Ceremonies. He's still doing a great job.

Artie: Isn't that Frank Scholz and Richie Paulsen over there?

Linda: Yes, I think they are filming the show so that vacationing millionaire, Mike Hassett, can see it. He's in Switzerland for the annual Yodelers Convention.

Artie: Look, here's the first act. Why it's Annette Dore and Agnes Tancreti.

Linda: Yes, they are doing their modern version of the Black and Orange Cha Cha Cha.

Artie: The orchestra sounds a little flat. There must be someone from our high school band in there.

Linda: You might know. Look at Joe McGrath.

Artie: I think he sounds well playing that harmonica.

Linda: Here's Eddie again. I wonder what's next.

Artie: It looks like an act from the original "Mother of the Bride". Who has the leading roles?

Linda: Betty Anderson plays the mother and Barbara Anderson plays the daughter.

Artie: They have made a fortune doing the dishwashing ads on television. Their hands are so smooth.

Linda: Gosh! What has happened to the lights?

Artie: Don't worry, it's only stage manager Walter Preble.

Linda: There's Gerry Spicer. Oh no, he's getting ready to show Christmas slides.

Artie: That's enough for me. Let's leave.

Linda: It's too bad. It was such a nice show, too.

Artie: I'll bet producers and financial backers John DeCola and George O'Meara won't be too happy about this.

Linda: Where shall we go now, Artie?

Artie: I don't know. Wait. Here comes a William Carpenter Jr. Bus. Let's take a sightseeing tour.

Linda: Great. Look, isn't that Butch Humphreys driving the bus?

Artie: Yes. He's head of a group of drivers that includes Frank Catino, Dick Cavagnaro, Tom Hamilton and John Chiofilo.

Linda: There are hostesses Barbara Lancelotta, Carla Valentine, Carol Lopez and Evelyn Donahue. It is their job to make the busride comfortable.

Artie: Well, we're off.

And as the bus pulls from the curb, all is silent until our two grads come upon a most extraordinary sight.

Linda: Look, Artie. Look over on that front lawn. There are Senators Joe Palermo and Don Nolan playing touch football with Speaker of the House, Don Eaton, Secretary of State, Clifford Munroe, and Vice President David McCauley.

Artie: And I thought that was only for Presidents.

Linda: It's getting late, Artie. I think I'll get off at the next stop.

Artie: Before you go, Linda, there's a celebrity banquet at Jimmy Noiles', Artie Barrett's and Lennie Burnham's new Golden Circle Plaza. I have two tickets given to me by hostess Judy Packard. Would you like to go?

Linda: I'd love to, Artie.

Artie: About 8 o'clock, then.

Linda: See you then.

And so we two depart until later that evening. At 8 o'clock Artie appears outside of Linda's apartment with flowers from John Rosander's Florist Shop. Out in the street is his safety-mobile driven by his personal chauffeur, Ken Zolon. He calls for Linda and soon they are on their way to the Golden Circle. However, after five minutes of riding, mechanical difficulties force the car to stop. Kenny, unable to right the wrong, calls for help. On the scene within three minutes are Tom Barbas, Arthur Mazmanian and Dan Noonan, three competent mechanics.

Linda: Well, we finally made it.

Artie: Yes, I see the Golden Circle's doorman, Wayne Hulbert.

Linda: What's the purpose of the banquet, Artie?

Artie: It's to honor Ellen Hardy, Jack Rotondo and Jimmy Morrison who are being inducted into the Sports' Hall of Fame.

Linda: I hope we'll see some more of our classmates tonight.

Artie: I'm sure of it. Look, there's the prominent dentist, Dr. Harry Nelson and his nurses, Barbara Sousa and Nancy Anderer.

Linda: And there's the representatives of the Housewives of America, Judy Rackliff, Janet Ciampo, Karen Burns, Elaine Souza, Celia Morandi, Margaret Porter and Fran Woodland.

Artie: Let's go inside. I want to see if I can find the Emmy Award winners, Leona Doyle, Joanne O'Neill and Lorna Union.

Linda: Aren't those hat check girls Janet McKillop and Janet Moyer?

Artie: Yes, and there are the two bouncers, Wayne Ryan and Harry King.

Linda: You didn't tell me the head waiter was Ernie Cioto.

Artie: Yes, he has just replaced Gerry Rastellini who quit to work in Mary Ellen Farynaz's and Lois Quinn's "Castaside Motel" in Miami Beach.

Linda: Well, let's find our table, Artie. I think the meal is about to be served.

And as our couple wind their way through the maze of tables, a fond memory is recalled --

Linda: Doesn't this remind you of our Senior Banquet, Artie?

Artie: Yes. The only thing that's missing is the fine orchestra.

Linda: Yes, isn't it a shame that Bob Danehy, Roy Larson, Charlie Collins and Norm Wheaton have to be in New Orleans for the grand opening of their nightclub, the "Hobo's Jungle".

Artie: Yes, but the boys got a lucky break when Bobby made $50,000 by playing Cetron Electric stocks.

Linda: Bill Johnson is drawing crowds at the "Hobo's Jungle" doing his impersonation of Louis Armstrong.

Artie: This head table is wonderful. It gives us an excellent opportunity to see some more familiar faces.

The conversation is suddenly interrupted by the appearance of waiter Carleton Richardson and after ordering chef Jimmy Carroll's special, our two grads once again begin to reminisce.

Linda: I have two tickets to the Newport Jazz Festival. We really should go down to see Woburn's own Mel Schenck.

Artie: While we're down there, we can also stop in at Dennis Metrano's "Expresso Cafe". Tucker Flaherty is giving some stirring orations on the "Evils of Studying".

Linda: Yes, some of his avid listeners are Robert Barch, Edie Elmstrom, Virginia Gonzales, Dick Querze, and Marie Johnson. They are all followers of Principal Fred Spolidoro and Chief Disciplinarian Paul Murray, whose slogan is, "Never learn today what can be learned tomorrow".

Linda: I don't see Kiwanis President Kenny Targett and main speaker Jim McPartlin around anywhere.

Artie: I have a copy of their speech here. Let's look it over.

Linda: It seems to be centered on the building progress of Woburn over the years. Do you know that the high school parking lot has finally been paved by Wayne Bowden, Charles Bowman and Ed Fletcher. They used a new hot top developed by George McAdams.

Artie: It gives a great deal of credit to our Mayor Paul Callahan and City Council President Jim McGarry.

Linda: City Engineers Alton Olson and Edward Osta have just received the plans from architects David O'Brien and Paul Ciriello for the new kindergarten named in honor of the great educator, Paul Chiuchiolo.

Artie: Credit must also be given to City Councilors Artie Hoff, Edie Johnson, James Graham, Nancy Parrish, Don Graham and Bill Reis, for it was they who chose Cynthia Cassidy's Health Farm for the location of the school.

Linda: Yes, and Cynthia had to recruit the aid of Joyce Hemsworth, Pat Saunders and Joanne Russis to relocate the establishment to the Parkway.

Artie: Yes, and she also hired Rex Loder, Peter McDonough, Peter Lawrence, Steve Frizzell and Ray Bell to install parking meters in the parking lot.

Linda: She also has the use of Tom Kelley's Yacht Club.

Artie: And to think he made his start with rowboats after the Junior Prom.

Suddenly the roll of drums and the appearance of a spotlight drew the attention of our two grads to the stage and to M. C. Eddie Callahan, who is about to introduce some well known celebrities seated in the audience.

Artie: Was that Frank Lenberg, the clothing magnate, he just introduced?

Linda: Yes, did you hear that he fired Betsey Burns, his assistant?

Artie: Oh, really! Why?

Linda: She could only help him by fixing his cuff links because she could never reach his tie.

Artie: There's president of Jackson College, Judy Morrow, taking her bow, now.

Linda: And there's Radcliffe President Phyllis Shaw. There's Marcia Petersen, who since her graduation from Brandeis has been awarding a four year scholarship to senior girls.

Artie: He's now introducing the famous lawyer, William O'Connor, candidate for D. A.

Linda: Seated with him are his secretary, Elaine Coakley, his stenographer, Regina Beauchamp, and his campaign managers, Dan Shaughnessy and Thomas Cordima.

Artie: And Joe Riley, the renowned newspaper columnist, who began his career by writing "Dear Abby" letters to Ruthie McLaughlin.

Linda: Now they write a column called "The Life With Riley". It is a daily feature in Don Haverty's, George Cumming's and Richard Murphy's newspaper, "Suburbia Yesterday".

Artie: Lenny Drew and Patty Simpson are next to be introduced.

Linda: I remember now, they bought out Purity Foods.

Artie: Well, I think that just about puts an end to the introductions. Let's enjoy our meal.

After a delicious meal prepared by Chef Carroll and his cooks, Ann DeTeso, Rose Puopolo and Kathleen Petrillo, our two classmates enjoy an entertaining floorshow by dancer, Susan DeGiacomo, guitarist, Guy Franceschelli, and pianist, Justyne Metrick, featuring songs by the well known composer, Lynette Herlin, sung by that "Show Me" girl, Kathy McCool. Following the entertainment, Hugh McPartlin and Joanne Kula, directors of the Arlene-Kaye Dance Studios, put on a brief demonstration. Suddenly, busboy Tom McDonough interrupts the couple by handing Artie a telegram.

Artie: Oh no! It says here that Mickey Bavaro has just run over himself.

Linda: How could that have happened?

Artie: Well, it says that he asked his downstairs' maid, Barbara Ring, to run over to the store for him and she wouldn't go. So, he had to run over himself.

Linda: Well that explains it. We'd better go over to the hospital to see if he's all right.

Artie: Good idea. I'll go out into the lobby and have bellboy Dick Spencer call a cab.

Shortly the couple is speeding toward the hospital in a cab driven by Ed Hubbard. (Steve Brady and Joan Willett bought all the taxis in Woburn.) Just outside North Woburn center Linda says --

Linda: Look, there's Robert Greenwood, Tony Farino, Lannie Hatfield and Artie McHugh sitting on the stone wall. The only time they ever get up is to go into Ronnie Brogna's Jim-Dan-Dee Pizza Palace.

Artie: Do you think they will erect statues of them when they do leave?

Linda: Well, here we are at the hospital. There's Keith Garchinsky and Robert DelSolio driving Charlie "All White" Linen Service truck. I'll bet there really cleaning up.

Artie: I'll ask receptionist Jean McAvoy what room Mickey is in.

After a brief question and answer period, Artie returns and says --

Artie: Mickey has been sent home, but I found out that a few more of our friends are here.

Linda: Yes. I heard from nurses Carole Spinazola and Joyce Nixon that Jack Halliday is here having his stomach pumped out after winning the Rhubarb Pie Eating Contest at the fair. Dr. Bernard Callahan is manning the pump. Look, there are trained nurses Joan Arruda, Mary Ann Baird and Pat LaFrance.

Artie: Oh, do they do tricks?

Linda: Someone mentioned to me that Pauline Caruso, Caroline Burdett and Susan Garrity were giving physical therapy here.

Artie: I hope they are treating star basketball player, Ed Sullivan.

Linda: What's the trouble with him?

Artie: Well, he had a rough time with a sprained foot this season.

Linda: That's only because Ed has a really big shoe.

Artie: Isn't that Doctors Artie Beauchamp, Dave Hogan and Ed Driscoll waiting in line for surgery?

Linda: Why are they waiting in line?

Artie: Because Doctors always go in turn.

Linda: There's chief nurse Eileen McDonough.

Artie: What is she carrying that skull for?

Linda: She's probably just trying to get ahead.

Artie: I hear that honor student Stephen Dagata has become a brainy surgeon here at the Choke Hospital. He has an excellent staff of x-ray technicians headed by Dotty Ames and Pat McSweeney.

Linda: Gee, Artie, it's about 4 A.M. Don't you think we should go home?

Artie: Why don't we take a run over to socialite Camille Leone's. She's giving a breakfast party in honor of Governor Beverly Cummings.

Linda: I'm sure that will be very interesting.

Artie: Well then, let's go.

And, as we step out into the street --

Artie: Hey! Look out! Did you see that? Kirk Hans nearly ran us over in his Jaguar.

Linda: Imagine wearing a beret and sunglasses at four in the morning! I heard he was making movies in Hollywood with Carol Carney.

Artie: Here comes Roland Maloney, the elevator operator. Maybe he'll give us a lift to the party.

Through the courtesy of Roland, our two classmates arrive at the Hairy Arms Apartments, the scene of the party.

Linda: Which room is it, Artie?

Artie: The landlord, Robert Upton, told me it was apartment 3-D.

Linda: It looks like we'll have to walk up, Artie. I think repairman Robert Kelly is fixing Roland's elevator.

Ten minutes and 327 steps later --

Linda: Phew! It's a good thing that we stopped at Jean Tonks' and Joan McKeon's lemonade stand on the fifth floor or we would never have made it.

Artie: Well, let's go inside.

Linda: There's Governor Beverly surrounded by Lt. Governor Robert Christie, Treasurer Robert McComiskey, and Executive Councilor Mike Kelley.

Artie: There seems to be a lot of statesmen here. It must be a political party.

Linda: I guess you're right, Artie. I see M.T.A. boss John McLellan trying to figure out the deficit with his secretaries, Kathy Antonucci and Barbara Fletcher.

Artie: Helping Camille run the party are Marcia Foster, Ann Russo and Charlotte Johnson.

Linda: They are all owners and operators of the Babe Ruth Nationals.

Artie: Isn't that John McGerigle? What ever happened to him after graduation?

Linda: Well, after he graduated from B.C. (or was it A.D.), he went down to Atlantic City and bought the Malibu Motel.

Artie: I see the party is being catered by Joe Tofuri.

Linda: Yes, and he has brought his waitresses, Barbara Landry, Ruth Langill, Sandra Smithell and Deborah McKeone.

- Artie: Isn't Pat Morton still working with him?
- Linda: No, she is now working with a well known Chicken Pie Company.
- Artie: Maureen Robideau and Pat Peary, the two top women engineers in the country, are seated over there.
- Linda: Really. What kind of trains do they run?
- Artie: No. I mean civil engineers, like Paul Pierce, for instance.
- Linda: Literary critics Donald Seavey and Joyce Lindquist are busy making notations of the highlights of the evening.
- Artie: I hope they are able to catch the conversation between philanthropists Jim Potamis and Gordon Norman.
- Linda: The last sentence I heard Gordie say was, "It's all Greek to me".
- Artie: Isn't that Jimmy O'Donnell and Henrietta DiGregorio playing whist over in the corner?
- Linda: Art instructor Jane McCauley told me that her pupils, Rita DeVito, Linda Dunnigan and Diane Ericson, couldn't make it tonight because they had to finish their art projects for Monday.
- Artie: I haven't seen stamp collectors Helen Marinaccio or Mary McHugh tonight.
- Linda: I haven't heard from either of them for twenty years.
- Artie: As I recall, they used to be so quiet that we never even heard from them while we were in school.
- Linda: Did I hear someone say, "Why don't you, Nimisit"?
- Artie: Wouldn't you know it would be Kendall Pacios.
- Linda: S'nimisit, Kendall!
- Artie: You know, Linda, I'd be willing to bet my car keys that we've seen everyone in our class today.
- Linda: Yes, Artie, it certainly has been wonderful seeing everyone again and reminiscing about school. The World's Fair has only proven to us what a small world we live in today.

Artie: I've enjoyed spending the day with you too, Linda.

Linda: Why thank you, Artie. I'm afraid these breakfast parties are a little too much for me. We'd better go home now.
